FUNDAMENTALS OF OPEN-END CREDIT

A 2019 ONE-DAY SEMINAR!

Consumer lending has undergone many changes within the past few years. Although the emphasis of most of these revisions were on closed-end consumer transactions, especially mortgage loans, financial institutions also originate open-end transactions, also known as lines of credit, including home equity lines of credit (HELOCs). Like closed-end mortgage loans, HELOCs are subject to a number of newer rules (including rules normally found under the closed-end requirements!). Financial institutions must be aware of those requirements that have existed for a while, as well as the newer obligations.

This comprehensive seminar will review in depth the open-end requirements and issues under various laws (e.g., What is the "outstanding principal balance" for flood insurance determinations?), but focusing on the Truth-in-Lending Act/Regulation Z. We will discuss the compliance rules applicable for all lines of credit, including unsecured lines of credits and credit cards, but will spend much of the day reviewing HELOCs. The manual will provide detailed analysis of the rules and serves as a valuable reference tool.

ProBank Austin was founded over 40 years ago to assist the financial institution industry with understanding compliance regulations. ProBank has developed into the "go-to" provider of training on these regulations, and we are confident our expertise can guide you along this difficult compliance task.
